CAMP ANDOVER CLOSES

Fourth Successful Season Terminates With Farewell Supper
Tonight—Swimming Events and Exhibition of Camp Craft Held Last Saturday

The older group of girls at Camp Andover held their annual field day on Saturday afternoon before an audience of nearly one hundred guests, parents and friends of the girls, and townspeople. Although the thunder shower prevented the meeting from being held out of doors, the rain cleared away in time for the swimming events, for which awards were made.

Demonstrations of the day's program were carried out, showing what the girls had learned in first aid, campcraft, nature work and the like, and various camp songs and funny poems were given as part of the program.

The swimming events were then carried out and awards were made as follows:
60-yard swim—First, Margaret Eggleston; second, Ada Child; third, Elizabeth Thomas.
25-yard swim—First, Dorothy Tannish; second, Elizabeth Sweetser; third, Elizabeth Goodwin.
20-yard race—Won by Madeline Schroeder.

Diving exhibitions were given by several girls under the leadership of Uncle Ben Davis. The girls who took part were Eleanor Thomas, Mary Thomas, Elizabeth Thomas, Dorothy Hardy and Laura Perry. Several of the counselors then exhibited diving stunts.

The farewell supper will be held this evening and the girls will leave for home on Saturday, when the camp season for this year will be over.

Andover Wins Rubber

In the final game for the championship of Andover and Ballardvale, played last night on the Playstead, the Andover baseball team was victorious by the score of 15 to 3. Lindholm pitched for the winners and was very effective. He was supported well by his team, many good plays cutting off runs. On the other hand, Dyer received ragged support and although many hits were made off his delivery, loose fielding added to the run-getting.

"Human Wreckage" at Lawrence

The opening attraction at the Colonial Theatre, Lawrence, will be Mrs. Wallace Reid in "Human Wreckage," the sensational moving picture now enjoying runs in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and at Tremont Temple, Boston.

Lawrence will be the fifth city in the United States and the second city in New England to witness this remarkable expose of the dire effects of narcotics and the unscrupulous drug peddlers and their methods. "Human Wreckage" is said to be in reality the true story of the brave fight which Mrs. Reid and her husband made against the dreaded narcotic evil, contracted by "Wally" during the course of his work at the studios. It was a losing game for the gifted star, but his widow is now doing all in her power to stamp out the hydra-headed monster, and in her work she has the best wishes and help of thousands. Another well-known star, James Kirkwood, recently seen in Boston in "The Fool," is prominent in the pictured story.

"Human Wreckage" opens at the Colonial Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be shown continuously, afternoon and evening, Sunday, Labor Day, and all the week.

Courteous Public Servants

When Mr. Curtis, the successful magazine publisher of the Saturday Evening Post and the Ladies' Home Journal, made his first visit to Philadelphia, he was given a most favorable impression of the city by the courtesy of the street car conductors and the policemen. Mr. Curtis was then a young man and had traveled but little and the accommodating manners of these public servants so appealed to him that eventually he located there. If he had been bawled out by a policeman and snarled at by a car conductor maybe the Quaker City might have lost the coming of one who was to be numbered among her most distinguished citizens and a great publishing industry second to none in the world. The public service is no place for a surly man. The efficiency and good nature of the London "bobby" is known the world over. There are 22,000 policemen in the British metropolis and England expects them to pass a physical and intellectual test and to be courteous in manner as well. And every member of that force expects it of each other. A new man who is disagreeable to the public hears from his comrades long before he is chastised by his superiors. The same is true of the tram car conductors of Amsterdam. Cleanliness is a national custom in Holland and these men are always shaved, their uniforms spick and span, their hands clean and their dispositions such that the worst crank couldn't object to them. Men in the public service everywhere will find their lot much happier if they assume a friendly, helpful attitude toward the great public that employs them.—Editorial, Malden (Mass.) News

Moulton.

Mutes Gather for Companionship.
Many early morning risers, arriving at the Brooklyn bridge have recently noted a gesticulating group of men who gather there every morning on their way home from their night jobs. All the men were deaf and dumb. They are employed in buildings near the bridge. Owing to their affliction they are unable to talk to their fellow workers. They agreed to meet each morning at the bridge to talk over the affairs of the world and to re-establish the feeling that they were not completely cut off from the current of human relationship.—New York Sun.

BATTLE OF SIDNEY STREET

Story of Fight in the Toughest Quarter of the London White-chapel.

Grove Street and Sidney Street in Whitechapel, a quarter of London, in England, is about the toughest quarter in the world. In its dilapidated houses, with forbidding fronts, are the meeting places of scores of radical societies, anarchists and communists, as well as gangs of thieves and criminals of all kinds and character.

Few persons remember about the "Battle of Sidney Street," which took place several years ago. Police had planned to raid a house in which were a number of violent anarchists, led by a Russian character, called "Peter the Painter."

The anarchists barred the doors and windows and opened fire on the police. Soldiers were mustered for the fight. They swarmed into the houses on the other side of the street, built defenses on the pavement, and from every vantage point poured a steady fire into the anarchist stronghold, every window of which was shattered.

The besieged replied with their rifles and automatics until their ammunition gave out. Then the attackers saw a haze of smoke pour lazily out of the windows. In a short time volumes of black smoke issued from the windows, through the crevices of the roof and sids. Soon the place was a furnace from top to bottom.

When the house was a heap of ruins, the police and soldiers found the charred bones of the anarchists. They had lighted their own funeral pyre.

Such was the famous "Battle of Sidney Street," which took place in the heart of London.

ODD COMMUNITY BARS OUT WOMEN

Athos Peninsula in Greece Has One of the Strangest Governments in the World.

Washington.—The Athos peninsula in Greece, to which the patriarch of Constantinople, head of the Greek church, has retired because of pressure from the Turkish government, is one of the queerest communities and has one of the strangest governments in the world, says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"On the 200 odd square miles of this rough peninsula which lacks little of being an island, it has been unlawful since the year 1045 for a woman to set foot. Moreover, domestic animals are barred! Even the eggs and milk that the good monks of Athos eat and drink must come from farms safely across the border of the strange monastic republic.

Treasures of Byzantium.—The entire peninsula is given up to monasteries of which there are 20, mostly on the slopes or cliffs of Mount Athos, the 6,350-foot promontory that rises near the outer end of the headland.

"There are one or more monasteries for each of the countries, or in some cases the communities that accept the Greek rite—Greece, Russia, Serbia, Bulgaria, Anatolia, Constantinople and many others.

"The monasteries are today one of the richest repositories of the illuminated manuscripts, statues, paintings, mosaics and other works of art produced in the heyday of that glided eastern Rome.

"The monks of Mount Athos have traditions of the beginnings of their establishments as early as the days of Constantine the Great, about 300 A. D. But history tells of the foundation of the earliest of the present monasteries, that of Lavra, in 900. The latest was established in 1545, a century after the fall of Byzantium.

"The monasteries are in every conceivable situation; some on gentle slopes near the sea, some on lofty crags overhanging the beating surf, and others inland on shoulders of the sacred mountain. All consist of walled spaces in which are churches, chapels, dwelling houses or dormitories, guest abodes, libraries, and in the case of the establishments under a non-individualistic regime, refectories. The East has always been turbulent, and Mount Athos knows its east; so all the inclosures are fortified.

Has Queer Government.—The government of Mount Athos has been republican in form for more than 800 years—since 1000, six years before the Normans conquered England. Each monastery elects a representative who is sent to the centrally situated village of Karyes, which is the capital. There the delegate occupies a dwelling owned by his abbey and constituting a sort of 'embassy' building.

"The twenty representatives sit as the most blessed assembly of the sacred mount, a parliament more venerable than that of London, if that body be dated from the recognition of the elective principle. The executive of Mount Athos is a body of five monks chosen by the monasteries voting in groups of four. Four of these executives each keeps in his custody a quarter of the great seal of the 'republic' and the fifth, the secretary, carries a handle which locks the fragments properly together."

Daughters Sue Father for Pay for Their Work

Kansas City, Mo.—Frederick Lieser, a Lafayette county farmer, is defendant in suits for remuneration for personal services filed by his daughters.

Edna Lieser, thirty-six, asks $10,000 as pay at $800 a year from the time she reached her eighteenth birthday.

Lena Lieser, fifty-four, asks $21,100 on the same basis, less $500 paid to her in cash in 1921.

Frederick Lieser, who is eighty-two years old, originally owned a 440-acre farm near Corder, Mo. The daughters say they were induced to remain on the farm and work on the promise that they would be paid and would be remembered in the father's will.

Recently Lieser sold 220 acres of the farm.

Ancient Coins Found at Foot of Mt. Etna

Rome.—Interesting relics in the form of two large brass vases filled with pieces of gold, and believed by experts to belong to a period 300 or 400 years B. C., have, by order of the government, been removed from Etna, which is situated at the foot of Mount Etna, to Rome.

The vases were discovered in a fissure in the ground under an old wall, after a slight earthquake, by a deaf and dumb peasant. The news of the find only reached the authorities when the peasant offered the vases for sale to collectors.

Bulgaria Field for U. S. Trade. Sofia, Bulgaria.—The American consul here believes Bulgaria offers an excellent market for manufactured articles of many kinds. He is Graham H. Kemper and he says the value of the market is evidenced by the desire of foreigners to share in it.

Ford Company Makes High Record for the Month

July brought two new sales records to the Ford Motor Company.

In addition to bringing retail deliveries of Ford cars and trucks into the midsummer season with a new high record for the month, July also carried the sales figures for the year past the million mark.

Increasing popularity of the Ford is most strikingly illustrated in the figures just announced, which show that from January 1 to August 1 this year sales of cars and trucks by the Ford Motor Company totaled 1,050,986 in the United States alone. And the rapidity of the increase in demand is further emphasized by the fact that sales for the first seven months of the year, during which the million mark was passed, were 391,796 greater than for the same period last year when they totaled 659,190.

July sales amounted to 156,908, an increase of 36,821 over the same month a year ago.

For sixteen consecutive months now, Ford sales have been well over 100,000 every month.

Production, which, by the way, is set at a higher schedule for August than any month so far, apparently continues to be the only factor limiting sales of Ford cars and trucks.

What you don't know somebody else is getting paid for knowing.

Advertising

The advertising of American business in American monthlies and weeklies amounts to about $150,000,000 a year, and newspaper advertising to about $350,000,000 a year, $800,000,000 in all, which is about as high as the bill for America's chewing gum, or lipsticks, rouge and powder.

The value of what the United States produces amounts to about $40,000,000,000, and this advertising bill of $800,000,000 is therefore only about 2 per cent of the total amount of goods produced. Advertising is an important and essential element in distribution. It is more than that,—it is the self-expression of business enterprise, and keeps it wholesome.

Russia tried the abandonment of advertising, and found that advertising and business both departed together.

Nothing of importance is ever done without a plan.

A tip to drivers—
and pedestrians too

By THE VETERAN MOTORIST

I SUPPOSE it's because I've driven around so much in the last fifteen years that I've seen about twice as many accidents as the average motorist. Can't begin to remember them all, but I know a lot were connected with passing trolleys.

One special reason for this lies in the different rules and regulations that prevail in different localities. In some places you may not pass a standing trolley at all, and there the pedestrian crossing the street should be perfectly safe from automobiles, so long as the trolley remains standing. In other places motors may pass a standing trolley "with due care" or "not less than" six or eight feet away; in these cases both driver and pedestrian ought to watch their going mighty carefully.

My best advice is to keep up to date on your own local rules about passing trolleys, etc., and follow them scrupulously. When you are away from home, and may not know all the local provisions, abide by the strictest rules for safety that you do know.

Paying for the White Elephant

While the town authorities have long foreseen the possibility of an assessment by the County Commissioners to cover the cost of constructing the tuberculosis hospital at Middleton, there has been no premonition that the assessment would be made with as little warning as has been given them. Sixty days is a very short time to pay an assessment of $67,000 odd, when one considers the construction of town governments and the legal procedure which must be gone through with to make such a payment. At the same time it is announced that this assessment does not cover the complete cost of construction, but that another amount, about one-seventh of the present amount due, can be expected before the debt can be cleared.

The present commissioners can hardly be criticized for their action in the matter. The loan which has covered this construction and which will be retired upon payment by the towns and cities of their proportionate amounts, calls for an interest charge of something in excess of $200,000, and it would have been anything but good business to consider continuing this charge over a period of years. The building itself, a legacy left by the former commissioners (one city official calls it "a white elephant . . . responsible for the financial murder that has been performed on Essex County and the political assassination of two County Commissioners"), is much larger than is necessary for the needs of the county. But that fact is not so important to us as is the fact that the town must shortly make a very large expenditure of money to cover the county assessment.

Two possibilities are being considered. Either the whole amount may be covered by bond issue, or it may be paid as a regular part of the county taxes and included in the tax rate. Both sides of the question have representatives among the town officials.

If the assessment is to be covered by an issue of bonds, it will be necessary to call a special town meeting within a few weeks. If it is to be covered by the tax rate, the matter can be decided by the Selectmen and the Finance Committee and the bill can be paid without any definite action on the part of the voters.

Bonding this debt will bring our present bonded debt well in excess of three-quarters of a million dollars, an amount which approaches the danger zone, when one considers the projects which must be attended to in the near future and which must receive this form of payment. Already our debt is considerably in excess of that in most of the other towns in the state having a similar valuation, and there seems no possibility of expecting anything but an increase in the next few years. A bond issue at this time will of course serve to lighten the burden of the present generation of tax payers, but it cannot help but cost the town a great deal more money in interest charges.

If the assessment is cared for by the present tax rate, the whole sour business will be over and done with for good and all. True, it will make a rate this year which will be probably about four dollars larger than was anticipated, but even with this increase, not a comparatively large one when one considers the other towns in the county which are similar in size.

In the meantime, no definite action can be taken on the forming of the tax rate, or deciding in what manner the assessment is to be met, until the report of the County Commissioners is heard today. A majority of the towns are actively in favor of delaying the payment by a rescinding of the assessment until the matter can be taken up at the meetings in March, and the commissioners are to report today upon the possibility of such action.

Then there is the possibility which has received some notice, that Middlesex combine with Essex in the support of the institution. The Lynn Chamber of Commerce has presented a plan which calls for a sharing of the cost of construction between the two counties and a board of governors in no way connected with the political life of either to have supervision of the hospital. It is held that since Middlesex has not yet complied with the state law which requires the construction of a hospital for the treatment of tuberculosis, and since the Essex institution is ample to provide for the needs of both, with the possible addition of accommodations not in excess of $150,000, our neighboring county should be more than willing to fall in with the plan. No action has yet been taken which serves to show the feeling of Middlesex officials on this matter. Its only effect in the present situation is that the payment of the assessment will be made under protest to allow for the possibility of an abatement of a part of the tax should the plan go through.

If the assessment is to be covered by an issue of bonds, the tax rate for this year will in all probability be lower than that for last year. No announcement has yet been made by the recess committee which is studying the question of state control and supervision of such institutions as the one at Middleton, although the general tone of Wednesday's hearing in Boston seemed to point toward action on the part of the state. In such an event, the towns will receive a refund on their present assessment, probably not equal to the entire amount which they now have to pay. At any rate, the possibility of state control will enter as a factor in determining which course of procedure will be made for paying the debt.

Editorial Cinders

Automobilists using the entrance to the Pumps Pond swimming beach which is maintained by the Peoples Ice Company should bear in mind that fact, that they are traveling on a private way. The road is extremely twisting and the frequent use of horns, and careful driving is recommended to everyone entering to the pond. The Ice Company are pleased to offer the use of the road to those who come to the beach, but they are correspondingly anxious that no accidents shall be caused by careless driving.

More work for the State Police Patrol in the recommendation of Registrar Goodwin that they pay special attention to the fast night drivers. Already this body of men have worked themselves into a position of friendship with the ordinary automobile driver, and should their action on this matter serve to remove the danger which comes from the fast night driver, who is frequently under the influence of liquor, they will have performed another service and added further justification for their existence.

Woman's Relief Corps Notes

At the regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps held on Tuesday evening it was voted to donate $25 toward the Pumps Pond swimming fund.

On September 11, Corps 75 of Lowell will make a fraternal visit to the Andover organization and present a traveling flag. This flag has on it the tags of the different corps which have been visited, their numbers, and the date of the visit. When Andover receives it the local corps will make a visit to some other corps and present the flag there. The visiting corps furnishes the entertainment on these occasions and the local corps the refreshments.

The regular meeting of the Essex County association of Woman's Relief Corps will be held in Rockport on September 19.

The last of the dancing parties to be held before the Carnival by the Knights of Columbus was held Monday evening at Parker's-on-the-Shawshoos in Ballardvale. Miss Mary Geagan was in charge. About three hundred persons were in attendance, either to enjoy the dancing or to play whist, nearly thirty tables being set for the game.

Buckley's orchestra furnished fire music for the dancing, which kept up until nearly midnight.

The prize winners were as follows: Lady's first, Josephine Sullivan, silk stockings; second, Mary McGilvrey, box of stationery; third, Mrs. Foster Matthews, boudoir cap. Gentleman's first, David S. Burns, bill fold; second, Edward Eldred, necktie; third, Vincent Hickey, carton of cigarettes.

The prizes were donated by William Mahoney, Lawrence; John H. Oxley, Haverhill; a friend; Mary Geagan; Audet and Therrien, Lawrence; Con E. Thomas, Lawrence.

A pretty dancing party was held at Roseland on the Merrimack Tuesday evening under the direction of Charles Bailey's committee of the Knights of Columbus Carnival. About three hundred persons were in attendance and enjoyed every minute of the time. Mal Hallett's Broadway orchestra furnished excellent music for the dancing which was kept up until midnight. Automobiles were in readiness to take the dancers to their homes. Besides the Andover organizations there were large numbers from the Lawrence council, K. of C., and their friends. The party was a success in every way.

Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward McCabe on Chapman court, a pleasant whist party was held under the direction of Mrs. Agnes Cunningham's committee for the K. of C. Carnival. Twelve tables were set for whist and there were many valuable prizes offered. During the evening refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the hostess.

The prize winners were as follows. Lady's prizes: embroidered handkerchief case given by Miss Lucy Lassus, won by Mrs. Joseph Fallon; silk lace centerpiece given by Mrs. Kerwin, won by Miss May Fallon; silk handbag given by Mrs. Annie Qualey, won by Mrs. D. Mahoney; flower stand given by Mrs. McCabe, won by Miss Grace Abercrombie; tea apron given by Mrs. Frotten, won by Julia Schofield; set of aluminum spoons given by Mrs. Qualey, won by Miss Rose Callahan.

The lucky holder of the ticket for the $5 gold piece was Mrs. James Green, who generously gave it back to be added to the list of prizes for the Carnival. The embroidered gown given by Mrs. Qualey was won by Mrs. Cunningham.

The last in the series of parties conducted during the summer by the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Daughters of America will take place this evening in Morrissey's garage on Park street. The floor in the garage has a smooth surface similar to outdoor dancing pavilions, and will be especially prepared for tonight's party.

Buckley's orchestra will furnish the music. Miss Marie Daley's committee is in charge of the affair.

It has been requested that all those who have articles for the Country Store, that is to occupy one of the main booths at the Carnival, will please send them to Miss Marie Daley or members of her committee.

Boys from Long Lake Lodge Form Bucket Brigade

Andover boys summering at Long Lake Lodge, Bridgton, Maine, by forming a bucket brigade, were instrumental in saving Long Lake Inn from total destruction by a fire which threatened it early Wednesday morning. The fifty guests from many parts of the country escaped without injury, but lost part of their personal effects. Loss was estimated at $20,000.

The fire, which broke out in the attic of the three-story structure, the main portion of which was built more than a century ago, was caused by an overheated chimney, a cornroast having been held in one of the fireplaces during the evening.

The building is owned by Ronello E. Wight, who made it into a summer hotel three years ago.

Andover Traveler Visits Nennig

"Travelers proceeding from Treves to Luxembourg may well stop off over a train at Nennig, to view the Roman mosaic pavement, in excellent preservation there."

A typical "Guide Book" statement, is it not? You read it without a thrill of any sort, but in reality a few hours at Nennig are anything but tame and ordinary. It is the kind of untouched and out-of-the-way spot that makes you feel "you are the first that ever burst" upon it. To begin with, one is glad to get away from Treves (Trier) in the occupied zone. That is a dead city these days, with sullen people, who accept dully the presence of the policing troops, chiefly dark-skinned colonials, in khaki with red fez. But the train south is full of regular blue poilus, jolly boys, being transferred somewhere. One has a popular song, printed on a single sheet. They try it through-together, and several copy off the words in small notebooks.

Nennig station is on the bank of the Moselle. Opposite it, across the bridge, lies Remich, belonging to the duchy of Luxembourg, with a long curve of beautiful hills on each hand, stretching northeast and southwest along the river; hills that are covered every foot with pretty vineyards, up to the crown of trees on the top. There is a walk of fifteen minutes from Nennig station to the village. This side, the country along the river bank is level, with fields of stacked grain, and great stretches of red clover or of flourishing potatoes.

Arrived at the village itself you begin to say, "Roman mosaic?" to everyone you meet, though nothing sounds more remote. But they nod and point and at length you reach a closed iron gate and avenue, suggesting a cemetery. Over it you read: "Roman mosaic pavement. For the person who shows, go to the last house on the left."

But the village has grown, and there came a time when the "last house" was no longer the last house. Then the people of Nennig, for reasons best known to themselves, added "No. 88" to the sign and to the house. It looked quite imposing, especially on the latter, which is the only numbered house in that tiny village!

By good fortune no one is at home at No. 88—an excuse for further rambling and inquiring round the very quaint streets. Here "barn" yard and "front" yard are synonymous to a degree seldom seen! But neat, low stone barriers keep the litter out of the road, and the walk about the village is a clean if not a fragrant one. Down the center of the principal street, along a valley in the paving stones, runs a clear brook. Ducks enjoy it. Children prefer jumping in it to crossing on the slabs provided. At one point part of the water is diverted into a basin, where a woman is kneeling and beating out the clothes with a flat wooden paddle. Threshing is going on inside a wide doorway, and more women, with large white cloths over their heads, briskly fork away the straw.

Mr. Deutschmeyer once found, is very cheerful at being called on to leave his work and show the mosaic. His uniform as custodian and as farmer-on-a-hot-day is the same. All that remains of the spacious villa Trajan built here in the valley of the Moselle, is foundation walls, bases of columns, conduits for central heating and for the baths, and the magnificent mosaic pavement. This is housed in a building not unlike the November Club house, substituting for wooden shingles, stone, plaster, and red tiles. You can walk around a little gallery and look down at the design of medallions and borders. Mr. Deutschmeyer enjoys explaining the ancient gladiatorial contest, the boxing match, and the wild animal hunts shown there in beautiful soft colors. The allied army men bought up all the booklets he had, but there were still a few postcards left at "two for five"—thousand marks!

"The American soldiers who came here were fine," he said; "and the English and the Belgians, but few French came." The Americans taught him the word "floor". One of them gave him a pocket knife. This boy was from "Chick-ago-ill"; no, on second thought from "Zant Pole". To a remark about the distance from the Atlantic coast to St. Paul he replied, "Oh, yes! we learned that in school." Then with the American penknife Mr. Deutschmeyer cut a red rose, as we walked down the path. "They have plenty to eat in Nennig," he said, "but not in Trier."

So we bade each other goodbye. There was surely food for thought: Roman art, Roman living arrangements, the Saar valley, wheat, potatoes, marks, an American-made knife!

Articles at Historical Exhibit to Be Safeguarded

The committee in charge of the loan exhibition to be held September 26 and 27, under the auspices of the Andover Historical Society, wish to assure those who are to loan articles that every provision will be made for their safety.

All articles which are not exhibited under glass will be protected by a rail and the custodians in attendance will see that all handling of articles will be effectually prevented.

This assurance is given for the benefit of those who have already made inquiries and also for the benefit of those who have withheld the offer of valuable or fragile articles because they felt anxiety as to their safety.

At less than a month remains before the exhibition opens, the committee is anxious to get in touch with all those who have interesting articles for that purpose. An appeal is made this week especially to those who have old dolls and old valentines.

TROWBRIDGE AND QUILL PEN

Author of "Darius Green and His Flying Machine" Once a School Master.

J. T. Trowbridge, author of "Darius Green and His Flying Machine," was in his early life once a "school master" in Lockport, N. Y. In those days quill pens were in use, and during the half hour given to the writing lesson the prevailing silence was broken by the scratching of nibs, and the frequent appeal, "Mend my pen, Master? Please mend my pen?" Mr. Trowbridge says in a book on his own life, entitled "My Own Story":

"Skill in pen-mending was one of the teacher's indispensable accomplishments; he was likewise required to write the learner's copy. Mere drugery much of this was, and it would have been intolerable to my youth and inexperience and sensitive nervous-sanguine temperament, but for the double necessity of doing my duty to those under my charge, and of earning my humble salary—sixteen dollars a month that season. Yet the pleasure in some of my work atoned for much of the annoyance attending the rest."

STUDY MAN-MADE LIGHTNING

Engineers Confident That Experiments Going On Will Prove to Be Successful.

Two-million-volt artificial lightning is being created in the research laboratories of the General Electric company, Pittsfield, Mass., in order that buildings and high power electrical transmission lines may be protected against the powerful "electrical dynamite" that nature discharges during storms, reports the Kansas City Star.

F. W. Peek, Jr., engineer in charge of the spectacular experiments now in progress, explains that in addition to the trouble that engineers have in keeping power current from escaping from the conductors there is the very important problem of lightning protection. A few million horsepower are released in a fraction of a millionth of a second when lightning crashes. Electrical engineers must know how to prevent this destructive force from reaching the conductors of power lines or they must arrange so that it will discharge harmlessly to the ground when it does get to the line.

The highest voltage actually used at the present time for the commercial transmission of power is 220,000 volts on a line in California, but the General Electric company has an experimental million-volt line. Mr. Peek declared that it is too early to say whether such high voltages will ever be acquired in practice.

RETORT WAS RATHER GOOD

Evidently There Were Humorists in the Missouri Legislature of the Year 1887.

W. O. L. Jewett of the Shelbina Democrat tells an incident in the legislature of 1887, in which Mark Twain figured:

"Henry Newman, representing Randolph county, was the wit of the house, and was trying to secure the passage of a bill to amend the stock law. This, Robert Bodine, representing Monroe county, was opposing. Mr. Newman said in his humorous style:

"I was in the gentleman's county once. I made a speech at a big picnic in Florida, and I thought I made a good one. In it I referred to the fact that we were close to the place where Mark Twain was born. After I was through, one of the gentleman's constituents, a tall, raw-boned long-haired, unkempt individual, came up, and shaking his finger in my face said: 'What lars you politicians are. I have lived here high onto fifty years and there was nary a man named Twain about here.'"

"The gentleman from Monroe county immediately was on his feet to reply: 'Mr. Speaker, I want it distinctly understood that when the gentleman from Randolph was in Monroe county it was before the enactment of any stock law.'—Kansas City Star.

Not Prepared.

The old deacon was the kindest of men, deeply religious and always ready with a good word. One day while he was driving to town he overtook an Italian peddler with a large pack on his back. Stopping his horse, the deacon suggested that the man ride. The Italian carefully stored his pack in the back of the spring wagon and then climbed to the seat beside the good deacon.

For some time the two talked pleasantly. Then there was a rather long pause, and, thinking to improve the occasion in a religious sense, the deacon turned and asked, "My friend, are you prepared to die?"

With a shriek the Italian sprang to the ground and disappeared into the nearby woods. The calls of the deacon only hastened the fellow's flight, and neither the deacon nor any one else ever saw him again in that neighborhood. It seems that the peddler was not prepared.

Sentiment and Sense.

It was evening by the sea and the poetess walked with the professor along the margin of the ocean. "Don't you love to see the phosphorescence on the waves?" she said. "What can it be, I wonder? Is it the mermaids lighting up their lamps, or the glow from the sea fairies' ballroom? Or can it be the reflection of golden treasure stored in the vasty caverns of the deep?"

"I think not, madam," said the professor. "It is only quite recently that the discovery of luminous bacilli has rendered possible any general explanation of the phenomenon, and even yet its wide applicability remains to be proved. It is, however, generally attributed to the decaying organic substances of diseased fish."—Boston Herald.

She Had It Right.

Two Irishmen had visited St. Paul's cathedral. One was from the country and had been taken to the famous building by his friend, who wished him to be duly impressed by its grandeur.

As they came out, the resident of the city said: "Well, Mike, and phwat do you think of it? Isn't it grand?" "Pat," said the one from the country, "it bates the devil!" "That," said his friend, "was the intention."

Re-elected President of Congregational Summer Conference

The third week of the annual Congregational Summer Conference at the Isles of Shoals, known as "Ministers' Week", was marked on Sunday by the arrival of many clergymen.

Rev. E. Victor Bigelow of the South church, president of the conference, delivered the morning sermon in the Old Stone chapel. Mr. Bigelow took for his subject, "The Contrast between Growth from the Earth and Gifts from God." The offering received was for the Seamen's Friend Society, Boston.

In the afternoon there was a "sunset sing" on the verandas of the Oceanic Hotel. Sunday evening a candle-light service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Dr. Frederick E. Emrich, secretary of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, Boston.

Rev. E. Victor Bigelow was re-elected president of the conference at the adjourned annual meeting Saturday. Other officers chosen were Prof. Irving F. Wood of Northampton, Prof. Henry H. Tweedy of New Haven, Conn., Franklin H. Warner of New York, vice presidents; Rev. John Reid of Peabody, secretary; Arthur Kendrick of Newton, treasurer.

The remainder of Saturday's program included an informal forum led by Prof. Tweedy on "Is Death the End or a New Adventure?"

In the evening the delegates held a vaudeville show in the ballroom of the Oceanic.

Fordson Sales Grow

Increasing use of tractor power in commercial, industrial and agricultural activities has brought a greater demand than ever for Fordson Tractors. To meet this demand, production of these sturdy power plants reached a total of 38,473 during the first four months of this year, more than twice that of the same time last year when 15,467 Fordsons were manufactured by the Ford Motor Company.

The Ford Motor Company has a coal reserve of 600,000,000 tons in its mines in Kentucky and West Virginia.

The Ford Motor Company has one of the largest private telegraph systems in the country. It connects the general offices at Highland Park, Detroit, with nine of the company's important branches, the River Rouge plant, the Ford radio station at Dearborn, Mich., and the Ford railroad, the Detroit, Toledo & Kronton.

B. A. A. Team Defeats Camp Andover

The B. A. A. baseball team journeyed to Brothers Field Monday evening where they met and defeated the Camp Andover team by the score of 5 to 1.

The B. A. A. team got the jump on the camp boys and scored two runs in the first inning and gathered one in the third and two in the fifth on bunched hits.

Camp Andover got their run in the last inning. For the camp team Davis starred and Withington put up a good game at third.

Sol Walker and Clyde Mears were the stars for the B. A. A. team. Mears making a spectacular catch of a high fly in right field. Sol played a good game at short and pitched part of the game.

The lineup: Sol Walker, s.s. and p.; Hooper Dyer, p. and s.s.; Clyde Mears, r.f. and 3b.; J. Platt, r.f.; Tony Clinton, 1b.; Arthur Stevenson, c.; Harry Murphy, 2b.; Clinton Stevenson, 3b. and r.f.; John Platt, l.f.; and Walter York, c.f.

From Four Grains of Corn

Four grains of corn became imbedded in a fleece of wool that came to the Ballardvale Mills Company, and on inspecting the wool were taken out and presented to A. F. Ryder, who lives on Andover street, who wished to see if anything would come of them. He planted the grains, and as a result stalks of corn 11 feet 9 inches in height grew and nine ears of corn were produced. The corn came from Harrison County, Ohio, and the ears were especially good eating.

B. A. A. Team Meets Defeat

Tuesday evening the B. A. A. team met defeat by Camp Andover at Brothers Field, by the score of 4 to 3. Pop Withington pitched for Camp Andover and it was partly through his good work that the game was won.

The big feature of the game was the playing of Henry Platt, the old-time first baseman on the Ballardvale team, who covered the initial catch for Camp Andover in big-league style, accepting twelve chances without an error. He also got one dandy hit. Sol Walker pitched for the B. A. A. team and it was not his fault that the team was defeated, for he pitched fine ball throughout. The lineup:

Arthur Stevenson, c.; Colbath, 1b.; Murphy, 2b., s.s.; C. Stevenson, s.s., 2b.; Mears, 3b.; Platt, l.f.; York, c.f.; Sanborn, r.f. Mike Flaherty umpired the game.

Pretty Lawn Party

The lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Nason was the scene of a very pretty and most successful lawn party held Saturday under the auspices of the social committee of the Willing Workers Society of the Methodist church. Although the showers in the afternoon interrupted somewhat the evening, made up for the delay. It was one of the most successful events ever held by the society or held in the town.

The different tables and tents were in charge of the following: Hot dogs, Harry C. Nason; fortune tellers, Misses Florence Sanborn and Anita Wells.

The Dippy House, which was full of oddities, furnished a great deal of fun and amusement. It was in charge of Edythe Moss, Nettie Rhodenizer, Joseph Lord, and Carl Wells.

Raymond Keating looked after the spring-water.

The ice cream table was in charge of Mrs. Lila Davison and Mrs. Ben F. Nason. The candy table was in charge of Mrs. Benjamin Summers and Mrs. Sarah Sleath. Peanuts were in charge of Ben F. Nason. Tonics were sold by Mrs. Edwin W. Brown.

Grabs were sold by Mrs. Thomas E. Adams.

The committee in charge of the affair was Mrs. Harry C. Nason, chairman; Mrs. Benjamin Summers, Mrs. Lila Davison, Mrs. Samuel B. Moody, and Mrs. Maud Murphy.

The lighting of the lawn was looked after by Harry E. Wells.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Maud Murphy, Mrs. Nelson Townsend, and Mrs. Harry C. Nason.

I. O. G. T. Meeting

The regular meeting of Ballardvale lodge, No. 105, was held Monday evening with Chief Templar Mrs. Francis Benson in the chair. One new candidate was initiated. District Deputy Daniel H. Poor installed Mrs. Mary E. Keating as financial secretary.

It was voted to omit the lodge meeting next Monday evening on account of the holiday. Full details were planned for the annual outing to Camp Dirigo on the Shawheen.

Party at Parker's

Last Monday evening at Parker's on the Shawheen, Miss Mary Gagan and her committee held a most successful whist party and dance. Transportation to the Andover people was furnished from the Knights of Columbus home on Chestnut street, down here and back. This party was another in the series of affairs that have been held in and around Andover during the summer, the proceeds of which have gone to swell the building fund of the Knights of Columbus and will be used to pay the expenses of moving and remodeling the new home which has recently been purchased.

Tables were set for whist and many attractive prizes were awarded the winners. Dancing was continued throughout the evening and a feature of the event was an auction sale of many valuable articles obtained by Miss Gagan and her committee for the occasion. Buckley's five-piece orchestra furnished the music.

Unnecessary Precaution.

It was William's wedding morn, but, alas! he overslept himself.

When at last he awoke he dressed hurriedly, and hastened to the station to find that his train had gone. There was not another for an hour.

Frankly he hurried to the telegraph office, and wired to the bride: "Detained. Don't marry till I come."

Walk Underground.

An underground moving pathway for Paris is the subject of investigation in that city. Thirteen plans were submitted and five were retained for further experiments. Of these, four work on the principle of parallel bands working at grinding speeds, and the remaining one slows down for each stop.—Scientific American.

For Week Ending August 26, 1923.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

With the exception of cantaloupes and peaches, the trading was very light on car lot receipts. This is due chiefly to the heavy arrivals of native stock on the market.

Standard crates and bunches, both green and pink meats sold mostly at $1.00-1.50 with a few males of best stock at $1.75.

There was a slightly better tone to peaches. Maryland Elbertas in six basket carriers ranged from $2.50-4.25 according to quality while bushel basket stock from $1.00-1.75. Supplies of watermelons are exhausted and no sales were reported.

First arrivals of grapes from New York brought $1.25-2.00 per six basket carrier. There was a slightly better feeling on potatoes. New Jersey Cobblers sold at $5.00-5.25 per 100 lb. sack and $3.00-3.25 per first bin. Maine car $1.00-1.25.

Tomatoes arrived on the market this week and sold mostly at $3.00 per 100 lb. sack. There were also arrivals of Irish cabbage from $2.00-2.50 per 100 lb. sack. Onions sold under a very strong feeling, due to the strong demand for them in the Boston, Connecticut Valley and New York Yellow varieties brought $5.00 per 100 lb. sack.

Bentley School Largest of Its Kind in the World

The growth of the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance is one of the outstanding achievements in the development of American institutions of learning. Starting with a class of twenty-nine in 1917, and attaining an enrollment of 2295 students during the year past establishes a record of growth in six years that is astonishing. Among the features that have contributed to this remarkable growth are specialization, progressive policies and service.

Our industries and professions make progress in proportion to the increased efficiency of men and methods. Experience has shown that specialization makes for greater efficiency. The demand today is for men qualified to do some one thing particularly well. If an individual can make greater progress through specialization, it would seem reasonable to believe that an educational institution that specializes should be able to do more effective work than one that generalizes in its efforts.

The Bentley School of Accounting and Finance is in line with the times. It is the largest professional school of collegiate grade in the world devoted exclusively to training men for commercial accounting, public accounting and financial management.

The high standards of this school are expressed in its requirements for graduation. Students must attain an average grade in all accounting subjects of not less than 82 per cent., and in all other subjects of not less than 68 per cent. In order to receive a diploma a student must complete two years of practical experience that satisfactorily demonstrates his technical ability, application and adaptability.

If a student fails to attain a passing grade in a course he is permitted to repeat without charge. This is done to encourage thoroughness and also to avoid inference that the school recommends the repeating of courses for any purpose other than the benefit of the student.

The service rendered to graduates in placing them in positions is important. Members of the 1923 graduating class have been placed in all of the New England States, New York, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, San Francisco, Costa Rica, Honduras, Guatemala, Colombia and Cuba.

Its graduates are holding positions as office managers, accountants, auditors, assistant treasurers, credit men, and public accountants.

The school has succeeded because it has trained men for specialized work, rendered as much service as possible to its graduates, and put the human touch in all of its work. This is the second year the school has occupied its new building at 921 Boylston street, Boston. It will be glad to send catalogues of day or evening courses to anyone interested.

Don't be afraid of what "people will think" - people don't think about you half as often as you think they do.

Novelties in Weddings.

At a recent English wedding the seven attendants of the bride were attired in colors representing the favorite flowers of the bride. The effect was very brilliant.

At a similar function there were five child bridesmaids who looked charming in Joshua Reynolds costumes of white muslin with quaint mop caps, blue sashes and bunches of king roses. The little ones looked as if they had just stepped from the painting of the distinguished artist.

LIGHTS TO MARK WAY FOR PILOTS

Night Mail Flights Made Possible by Towers Installed From Chicago to Coast.

New York.—Giant night eyes, each more powerful than millions of candles, will flare up into the dark when the air mail service begins to span America in a few swift leaps. Crossing a 3,000-mile continent in a little more than two dozen hours requires great guiding beams—actual land lighthouses—to light the cloud-flecked pathway of the intrepid pilots after sundown.

Such bright-burning beacons will pierce through the night-robed zenith in a gleaming row, stretching clear from the foot of Lake Michigan to the southeast corner of Wyoming, when cross-continent mail delivery by air starts within the next few weeks.

The dwellers in nearly two score towns will have these permanent auroras for their companions every evening, and will go to bed with them still oscillating high above their heads. The circling columns of light will become landmarks of the night, for folk who walk upon the earth as well as for the giant grasshoppers of the skies.

First in the World.

They will form the first installation of their kind in the world—the first attempt to illuminate the highways of the heavens for constant use in the paramount affairs of man. On nearly two score sites they will be erected, mounted on slender, steel-legged towers, operated by purring electric motors, automatically moving their blue-white shafts of light, silent, alone, unfailing markers of the aerial roadway that will almost cancel the thought in Kipling's classic: "East is east and west is west, and ne'er the twain shall meet."

It was Kipling, too, who wrote "With the Night Mail," a story of just such an enterprise as the United States Post Office department is about to inaugurate. And now we have really reached the era of night mail within Kipling's own lifetime, so swiftly do we move in these crowded years.

The eastern edge of the "darkness zone" on the transcontinental air mail route will be Chicago. There a beacon light of 325,000,000 candle power will be stationed. At the western boundary of the zone, Cheyenne, Wyo., 800 miles away, another of equal intensity will stand guard. Between them will be three others of this size, at points where the permanent landing fields for the night mail are being laid out—Iowa City, Omaha and North Platte.

At lesser intervals, every twenty-five miles, there will be beacons of 5,300,000 candle power, marking what will be known as emergency landing fields.

Install Thirty Light Towers.

These smaller searchlights will be located at more than thirty places along the route: Batavia, McGill, Franklin Grove, Rock Falls and Cordova, in Illinois; Donahue (Dixon), Moscow, Williamsburg, Reasnor, Carlisle, Booneville, Casey, Atlantic, Oakland and Montezuma, in Iowa; Wahoo, Garrison, Stromberg, Central, Grand Central, Shelton, Lexington, Gothenburg, Paxton, Brule, Chappell, Sidney, Potter and Kimball, in Nebraska; and Pine Bluffs, Wyoming.

The combined strength of all these powerful rays, if united into one great shaft of brilliance, would be equivalent to the light of not far from two billion candles—to be exact, 1,800,000,000.

It has been generally remarked that the big lights to be set up at the five permanent landing fields—Chicago, Iowa City, Omaha, North Platte and Cheyenne—are among the largest manufactured. Their rating has been given at various times as 600,000,000 candle power each, but this is in reality only a theoretical rating, which will not be actually attained at any time when the lights are in operation. The rating which indicates what the actual illumination intensity will be is announced by engineers of the General Electric company, as 325,000,000 candle power.

The searchlights for the five main towers are Sperry lights, manufactured by the Sperry company under General Electric patents. They are high-intensity arc searchlights with 36-inch projectors. The 37 smaller lights, which have 18-inch projectors and incandescent lamps, were designed and built by the General Electric company especially for this service. These land lighthouses all represent the furthest advance yet made by engineers in producing brilliant illuminating apparatus.

Seen Fifty Miles Away.

The visibility of these lights is such that the speeding pilots of the night mail, 7,000 feet above the earth, will never be out of sight of one or another of the friendly beams. The big lights can be seen at a distance of fifty miles and the smaller lights will be discernible thirty miles away. Leaving one behind him, the pilot will immediately pick up the next one, so that his course will be marked beyond any possibility of his wandering off to become lost in the darkness of the great void.

Probably it is not fully appreciated to what extent these two score eyes of the night mail will be automatic. The land lighthouses will need no keepers. Electrical mechanisms which can be depended upon to run by themselves (efficient one-half horsepower motors on the big lights, one-sixth horsepower motors on the small ones) will keep them oscillating in a continuous orbit, so that the giant shafts will always be moving slowly, steadily in a huge aerial circle. They will be inspected, however, every eighty days, or about once every three months, to replace the lamps.

Nine definite objectives have been kept in view in lighting the landing fields. These are: Definition of field limits, lighting of obstructions, indication of landing levels, illumination of landing stages, definition of the taxi strip, indication of wind direction, beacon (orientation) lighting, field identification markings and emergency lighting.

Whole Neighborhood Alight.

The fields will be outlined in light, chimneys, poles, towers and high buildings in the neighborhood will be lighted, other objects will be made to stand out so the pilot can gauge the landing level, and the landing stages, or areas in which the pilot puts the wheels of his plane upon the ground, will be clearly marked by light, as well as the taxi strips. An illuminated weather cone will show the aviator the wind direction on the field.

Guided, protected, welcomed, aided by light—by many lights—the government pilots that fly up into the air for each long hop of the long route across America's acres will find every possible facility for their alert eye-vision when they enter the night section of the route. The lights are what will make night air mail service possible. The lights! Without the lights, and without lights of tremendous power, this new and daring proposal of man to dwindle down his two arch competitors—space and time—would be futile and fatal.

But the lights that will shoot upward in immense rotating columns, standing out clear and bright against the unbounded immensity of black space, rivaled, but not outdone, by only the sickle moon, will actually bring to pass mail delivery between New York and Frisco on a twenty-eight-hour schedule.

Mail will leave New York at noon one day and reach San Francisco by evening of the next day—and from San Francisco to New York the same eagle-swift passage will take place.

Poverty Ends Royal Romance of Many Years

London.—The postwar poverty of many once powerful nobles has brought before the public the sad ending of a royal love affair.

The story is the romance of Princess Louise of Belgium, daughter of Leopold II, who married Prince Philip of Coburg, and about thirty years ago left her husband and her two children to elope with Capt. Gera von Matschich, a Hungarian nobleman.

The princess was divorced by her husband, and Capt. von Matschich lost his commission in the Austro-Hungarian army. Following the war, money became scarce, and the lovers were compelled to move from their palatial residence in Vienna to a small village.

The princess disputed the will of her father, who left everything to his morganatic wife, the Baroness Vaughan, but she lost the suit. Then she appealed to her sister, the Princess Stephanie Lonyay, former crown princess of Austria.

Princess Stephanie offered to allow Louise, who is now 64 years old, to pass the rest of her life at the beautiful castle of Grossarl, in Hungary, on condition that she leave von Matschich. The offer was accepted, and friends now have found another home for the penniless captain.

Weddings in London

Becoming Freak Shows

New York.—Weddings in London are tending to degenerate into shows, and freakish shows, too. Each new bride has tried to outdo the last, and in search for something original, unique, unheard of, beauty disappears.

"We have seen green weddings and yellow weddings and blue weddings; daffodil and lilac and rose weddings. Soon the available flowers will be exhausted—will the turn of the vegetable kingdom come? Shall we read of bridesmaids carrying 'sweet bunches of radishes'?" asks the Manchester Guardian.

"We have had period weddings; the Victorian and Elizabethan eras have provided costumes for attendants and brides. I suggest that something more far-fetched is wanted. Why not the cave dwellers' wedding. This should appeal to the tall, fair, white-armed girls. We would hear then that 'the bride looked magnificent in her fur tunic, her long hair flowing on her shoulders and a chaplet of red berries drelling her brow,' and that the pages looked like so many small Teddy Bears."

"Mother-in-Law Beat Me," Wails Bride, 63

"My mother-in-law beat me because I do not know how to wash the dishes," sobbed Mrs. Florence Barber, sixty-three years old and a bride of six months, in court at Chicago. The mother-in-law is eighty-nine years old.

"Go home and try it again," advised the judge. "Stay out of reach of the old lady's cane and do the best you can about washing the dishes."

F. SCOTT FITZGERALD'S POPULAR NOVEL
BUSTER KEATON in "THE BALLOONATIC"

HAVE PEST OF CATERPILLARS

Myriads of the insects strip trees in Bohemia—Peasants Carry Umbrellas in Woods.

Oscar John, a New York musician who returned recently from Czechoslovakia, said that the great forests of northern Bohemia were being destroyed by a caterpillar pest, according to the New York Times.

"The caterpillars in northern Bohemia," said Mr. John, "originate in myriads from the black butterfly called the nonne, or nun in English, which lays its eggs on the ground in the forests. Directly these insects are hatched they swarm up the trees, sapping its life as they climb up the trunk by eating all the green shoots and leaves."

"On reaching the top the caterpillars swing by their own saliva across to the next tree and destroy it as they go down to the ground. Millions of these crawling pests make a mass when they are doing the aerial trapeze act and fall to the ground so thickly that it is just like rain."

"Peasants walking through these dense forests have to carry great cotton umbrellas to prevent themselves from being smothered by the caterpillars. There are no picnics under the trees, because a soup basin would be filled up before there would be a chance to eat the contents."

"The only thing that can be done with the trees after the caterpillars have finished with them is to cut down the dead trunks and saw them up into logs for firewood."

"It gives one an uncanny feeling to walk through the great dark forests of northern Bohemia and hear the gloomy creak of the buzzsaw from the lofty branches of the trees and the pitter-patter of the caterpillar rain on the big umbrellas carried by the peasants."

WOMEN RULE IN THE SAHARA

Warlike Tuaregs, or "Vellid Men of the Desert," Allow Feminine Rule Over Tribes.

One of the most remarkable of the results of the French expedition which recently conquered the Sahara by the use of automobiles was the discovery and the revelation of the secrets of the extraordinary Tuaregs, "velled men of the desert," as they have been called, one of the most mysterious races in the world.

For one thing, these extraordinary people of the desert, contrary to what might be expected of their proud and warlike natures, allow feminine rule to an extent unheard of. This is all the more strange, inasmuch as they are fanatic Moslems, and according to the tenets of Islam, women are inferior creatures. The women are remarkably beautiful. They do just what they want to, domineering the men. They are the only women of the desert who are not forced to wear veils over their faces. The men wear the veils instead. They think the veils make them very mysterious and enticing.

A man has a right to all the wives he wants. If a man wants a divorce, all he has to do is inform the chief, called the "caid," and send his wife away, and the divorce is complete.

5-TOED HORSE LIVED IN ASIA

Unknown Founder of Family Is Believed to Have Been a Very Small Animal.

The unknown founder of the horse family is believed to have been a small five-toed animal with teeth like a monkey's. He is believed by scientists to have lived in Asia.

Paleontologists predicted the discovery of the four-toed horse before actual specimens were found and the strongest proofs of the evolution theory consist in the fulfillment of such predictions, which show that the principles of evolution are so fully understood that, from fossils at certain stages in descent of an animal, it is possible for an expert to predict with accuracy what fossil skeletons of earlier stages of its development will be like. The four-toed horse made a simultaneous appearance in Europe and America, suggesting that it had migrated to those places at the same time and that the original stock was to be found in some other part of the world.

Well Informed.

The modern rural postmaster has not much time to read the post cards of his neighbors, even if he wished to. But his more or less mythical propensity for doing so has at least given rise to many stories.

"One day a young farmer drove to town, and wound up at the village post office."

"Hello, Beth!" said he. "Got anything here for me?"

"Don't see nothing, Jake," rather indifferently replied the postmaster. "Was ye expectin' somethin'?"

"Yes," answered the farmer. "I was expectin' a postal card from my Aunt Jinny, tellin' me what day she was comin' down."

"Hanner," called the postmaster to his wife, "have ye seen anything of a postal card from Jake Leed's Aunt Jinny?"

"Yes," was the prompt reply of the postmaster's wife. "She is 'comin' down on Thursday."

MOTOR CAR CAMPERS MANY

They Are Doing Good Work Building Great Fraternity of Outdoor Sports Lovers.

We have heard the lure of the outdoors preached as long as we can remember, says the Sportsman's Digest, and while no one disputed the value of time spent close to nature, it remains a fact that only since the motor car has come into universal use have appreciable increases been made in the number of people who spend a part of their spare time in the open.

A few years ago the motor car camper was a rare specimen—a curiosity that would attract attention at any cross roads. Today he is a fixture to be found on every highway and byway of this broad land. Each season he is carrying more and more of his fellows out into the open, thus aiding, to a great extent, the purpose that the outdoor press has so long advocated.

The camper is to be encouraged, for through him a great fraternity of outdoor sports lovers is being built. The community which has not made provision for the camper and is not ready to welcome him is far behind the times, not only in the way of failure to co-operate in a growing movement, but from a selfish standpoint also. The camper, depending on the treatment he receives, can become a great asset to a community.

Yes, the camper is a fixture and it seems to be up to the various communities to receive him well and to send him on his way pleased with the courtesy shown him—an ardent booster for the communities which he has visited.

Vest Pocket Jazz.

A Hungarian engineer, Stephen Vadesz, has invented a gramophone no larger than a watch. The invention is described as a real, practical instrument, capable of producing jazz, rags, waltzes, and one-steps. The microphone, as it has been christened, winds like a watch. There is room inside for ten plates, giving a repertoire of twenty selections. It can be carried in the waistcoat pocket.

Nothing quite so small has yet been seen in England. There is, however, on the English market a midge machine that can boast of being six inches high (the size of a Brownie camera) and tipping the scales at four pounds. The machine has a collapsible horn, and takes full-size records. When folded it is like carrying a second kodak.

Is Separation Right?

The French senate has voted to transfer to the pantheon, France's hall of fame, the remains of Renan, Edgar Quinet and Michelet. This is a high honor from the state. But in 1898 Michelet's wife opposed the transfer of her husband's body. She had been the historian's intimate literary helper—almost a collaborator—and knew all his thoughts. When the proposition was made to her she said: "No! He would not have wished it. He chose his grave himself—in Pere-Lachaise beside his son's. Let him sleep there in peace." But there may be no one today to interpose a veto on the senate's resolution, if it also passes the chamber of deputies.

Biggest and Best.

The annual meeting and banquet of the Men's Social club had not proved successful. The committee in charge of the arrangements, however, were more hopeful of a better conclusion as the guest of honor was introduced by the chairman.

"Gentlemen," he said in a genial voice, "we have with us tonight one whom you all know very well, Professor Piffie, who has promised to tell us some of his biggest and best after-dinner stories.

Amid tremendous applause from the guests, the professor rose from his seat.

"Mr. Chairman and gentlemen," he said, when he could make his voice heard. "To begin with my biggest story, let me tell you how thoroughly I have enjoyed your banquet."

Black Rain.

One of the services of science is in destroying superstition, and a notable example of this was afforded not long ago in Ireland. On an October night a fall of black rain, leaving ink pools in the roads, occurred in many parts of the island. It was noted at the famous observatory at Birr castle, and an investigation of the meteorological conditions prevailing at the time followed. The result was to show that there had been a movement of the air all over the central part of the British Isles such as carry soot from the manufacturing districts of England over the Irish channel. Examination of the black rain showed that its color was due to the presence of an extraordinary amount of soot.

Soya Bean Bread in Austria.

Austria's experiments with soya bean flour in bread-making have proved successful, and this bread has become so popular that, according to the Department of Commerce, the output has increased to 10,000 loaves daily.

Three months ago the first experiment was made by a Viennese baker, who put out a loaf of wheat bread with a 20 per cent mixture of soya bean flour. Soya flour is said to be rich in proteins and fats, and its carbohydrates possess a sweetening quality which makes it distinctly agreeable. The flour is produced under a secret process.

SOCCER SEASON TO OPEN

Shawsheen and American Woolen Will Meet on Balmoral Field. New Halfback To Play

Saturday will witness the formal opening of the Industrial Soccer League, when four games will be played by the eight teams in the league. Prominent among the contests will be a game at Balmoral Field, Shawsheen Village, between the Shawsheen eleven and that of the American Woolen Company of Lawrence. Great rivalry exists between these two teams and a great match is looked for. Each team will endeavor to make a winning start so as to begin the season well. Many tickets have been disposed of for the contest and it is expected that a large throng will attend.

The Shawsheen team is endeavoring to strengthen itself every chance it gets, the latest effort in that line being the signing of a star halfback who has just arrived from Scotland. He may be seen in the contest Saturday.

The grounds will be in splendid condition for the match and the game promises to be close and very interesting. George M. Wallace, who is closely identified with the game, will start the contest with the kick-off at 3 o'clock. It is expected that a number of American Woolen executives will witness the contest. The game is growing in popularity and many of the officials of the company have become devotees of the sport.

The Shawsheen eleven will be chosen from the following players: Hughes, Jackson, Whitehead, Craig, Hampden, Watson, Pearson, Brownlee, Cair, Smith, Timony, Corrigan, Bennett, McDermott, Hanan, and Paton. Two halves of forty-five minutes each will be played. It will be one of the opening games of the 1923-1924 season.

United States Public Lands.

United States government during the last year has turned over to private citizens of this country 12,904,821 acres of public lands through issuance of patents giving them complete ownership, according to figures compiled by the general land office of the Interior department.

The total equals the acreage embraced in the states of Connecticut, Delaware and Maryland. Titles were given to 9,632,635 acres under the homestead law, which means that constructive home-building will result. Since 1920 over 10,443,647 acres of public land have been thrown open, in which ex-service men of the World war have had preference in filling entries.

When Is It a Fish?

It happened at a Sunday evening lunch, in the home of a six-year-old Indianapolis boy.

The center of attraction at this particular lunch was a plate of sardines, and the father of the youth offered to serve him, saying: "Miner Evans, will you have a sardine?"

"Miner Evans looked at the offering.

"What's a sardine?"

"Why, a sardine is just a fish, and you like fish."

Miner Evans had spent his last summer at a Lake Michigan resort and felt competent to pass on questions concerning fish and fishing, so he drew back in lofty disdain and emphatically declared: "You can't fool me, that's not fish, that's bait."

Substitute for Rubber.

Chemists have worked out what they claim to be a practicable substitute for India rubber. They use as a basis the oil of the soya bean. Two parts of this oil are treated with one part of nitric acid, and the result is an emulsion. This emulsion is heated to the boiling point of water, when it becomes converted into a uniform gummy mass. Upon being washed in water, this mass is dissolved into dilute ammonia water (5 per cent) and from this solution a precipitate is obtained by neutralizing with some dilute acid. This precipitate is again washed with water and heated to about 112 degrees Fahrenheit.
